The Guardian Angels was awarded a contract from the NYC Department of Education to provide student support services to city schools under procurement 1C510. Approval of our organization as a contracted vendor is a tremendous opportunity to increase and broaden our outreach to NYC elementary, middle, and high schools. This contract allows us to bring our programs to greater numbers of teachers, students, and parents, and help to keep NYC schools and young people safe!

The Guardian Angels Education Team faculty is equipped with the knowledge, training, skills, and resources to conduct assemblies, workshops, interactive classroom exercises, seminars, and customized program for schools on topics including:

- Leadership
- Anti-bullying
- Gang awareness, prevention and defense
- Internet safety
- Youth violence reduction
- Empathy training
- Anger management
- Classroom management
- School pride
- Bob Proctor’s Youth Coaching program, which helps kids plan their futures

Our educational programs are unique and powerful and equip schools with practical tools for immediate application in the classroom and outside world. They are designed to help school staff members create safe and productive classroom environments and instill students with the knowledge, tools, and perspective needed to help them resist gangs and minimize bullying and cyberbullying.

Team members will also work with staff and students to establish a Guardian Angels Role Model Academy in the school, offering an opportunity for ongoing implementation of The Guardian Angels lessons. The student members of the academy, under the direction of a school staff member, model the leadership, civility, citizenship, volunteerism, and kindness modeled and nurtured by all Guardian Angels youth programs.
