

Fall is upon us and Guardian Angel groups have been increasingly petitioned to expand the after school programs through public schools systems, public housing projects and section 8 housing groups. In addition, we are now training three times the number of public school teachers in classroom management and violence prevention.

Our Role Model Academy

Kids Sticking Up for Kids

Our newest program is designed to enable children to help themselves and others in an all-too-common situation: Bullying.

We are very happy to report that this program has expanded to the following school districts:

- Montville
- Rockaway Township
- Oradell
- Roxbury
- Keyport
- Kearny

We are delighted that the program is also picking up steam abroad as witnessed by the following article in the Manchester Evening News: A friend in need is a friend

Son of New York mob boss John Gotti is denied bail

Did you know?

The Japanese Prime Minister officially recognized the 24 chapters of Guardian Angels that exist in Japan. He encouraged Curtis and Keiji Oda, our Director of Japan, to grow and expand into the Japanese Public School System.

In order to be of more assistance during emergency situations, Guardian Angels from all over are taking classes to enable them to be "disaster responders" for the Red Cross. Angels from Nevada, New York, Florida and California are among the newest angels to complete the CERT (Community Emergency Response Team) training. This program includes all-risk, all-hazard training that better prepares our volunteers to survive the initial phase after a disaster and assist and coordinate spontaneous volunteers until professional assistance can reach the scene. CERT members are then integrated into the emergency response capability for their area.

Other Angels have been trained to man emergency phone lines and to coordinate Red Cross and FEMA volunteer and donation efforts outside of the disaster area. It is this dedication that made our volunteers so valuable during the Florida hurricanes recently.
