

Dear Friends,

Infoshare Guardian Angels in Capetown

South Africa has been one of three countries topping Interpol's violent-crime statistics list of 110 countries for the past several years. In response, Charl Viljoen, of the Cape Town City Police, recently announced support for a Guardian Angel Initiative in Cape Town.

The program includes the launch of a local chapter of the "Guardian Angels", which will employ at least 50 volunteer workers and will be based on a partnership between local businesses and the policing agency.
