

Guardian Angels graduate 14 in effort to make Easton's streets safer

Posted by trhodin May 19, 2008 19:50PM

Express-Timers File PhotoGuardian Angels leader Curtis Sliwa, photographed during an earlier visit to Easton, presided over graduation tonight at the Easton Community Center.

The Easton chapter of the Guardian Angels became a reality tonight when Curtis Sliwa, founder of the red beret-wearing volunteer safety organization, graduated the city's first 14 members at the Easton Area Community Center. After more than six months of planning and training, the Angels plan to start patrols in the city's South Side, Downtown and West Ward neighborhoods.

Read an earlier report:

Guardian Angels set to get their wings

What do you think of the Angels? Join the conversation in our Easton forum or post a comment below.

Categories: Breaking News, Easton Area News, Lehigh Valley Live, Pennsylvania, Police

Comments

Heimat says...

This is a disgrace. Our once beautiful, clean and safe town has become a cesspool where we have to have these slightly reformed gangsters patrol our streets. These Guardian Angels will do the job that used to be done by the police: patrol the streets, get to know the citizens, and be a civilized force within the neighborhoods. But no, the cops sit in their cop cars, eat donuts, and almost never have any positive inter-action with the citizens.

Our city is now over-run by bums. It was better in the old days.

Posted on 05/19/08 at 11:49PM

Footer